

Special Education Interpreting

Topics Relevant to School Based, Special Education, Foreign Language Interpreting

This online course is intended to provide exposure to topics relevant to interpreting in the special education setting. The course is designed for bilingual school staff members (and other members of the community) who are asked to fill the role of foreign language interpreter.

Participants will gain an overview of key special education terminology, develop a better understanding of an interpreter's role within special education standardized testing, acquire information regarding situations within a school system in which he/she may be asked to act as an interpreter, and learn about ethics for people who are placed in interpreting roles.

Various knowledge checks and quizzes are provided to help gauge and reinforce mastery of the material. Course details:

- The course is self-paced and is available 24/7 via web access after you activate your account.
- Students are able to interact with the instructor via an email link.
- Training consists of 10 modules and students can register at any time within the semester. Modules need to be completed by the close of the semester to receive a certificate of completion.
- No textbook required.
- Students who are successful in this course need to have access to internet and a computer rather than a tablet or mobile device. Students are expected to be able to follow video and written instructions for uploading assignments and videos to the course page. Access to printing may also be beneficial.
- Upon completion, students will receive an eCertificate of Completion (1.0 CEUs) via email. Course must be paid in full prior to receiving a certification of completion.

Who should attend?

The course is intended for people who have at least a high school diploma or GED.

Coursework developed and managed by

Testimonials

"This was a great experience and now I can say I feel more confident about interpreting. I feel I have more tools available for myself in order to assist with other family members or parents that do not speak the English language. Thanks again!"
- Nora Carrillo, Bilingual Paraprofessional and SLPA Student

"With a population that is almost 40% Latino and 25% English Learners (EL), the Long Prairie Grey Eagle (LPGE) School has a need for interpreting services. Due to such high need, the bilingual paraprofessional staff members are often put into the position of interpreting within the special education setting including during evaluation procedures and in meetings. LPGE enrolled seven of our bilingual paraprofessionals in this online class through Alexandria Technical and Community College to help them gain more knowledge regarding interpreting in the special education setting. We felt it was important for our staff to have background in this information so that they could work more effectively with our special education staff as well as help our bilingual families better understand the special education process. By offering the course online, our staff members were able to complete coursework on their own timeline while also gaining the skills to be more confident when interpreting in the special education setting and collaborating with each other and school staff. LPGE school district would recommend this program to other organizations that have needs in this area."

~ Jon Kringen, Ed.S., Superintendent of Schools Long Prairie-Grey Eagle School District #2753
